Description

This clumping perennial forms basal foliage mounds of long-stalked, circular, scalloped-edged, toothed, pleated, soft-hairy light green leaves (up to 6" across). In late spring to early summer, tiny, apetalous, star-shaped, chartreuse flowers in loose clusters are at the tip of stems above the leaves, 12-18' high. No serious insect or disease problems. Can be an aggressive self-seeder.
